Robin Robertson joins National Capital Bank of Washington as Retail Banking Director

Washington, D.C.—The National Capital Bank of Washington (NCB) announced today that Robin Robertson has joined the Bank as Senior Vice President, Retail Banking Director for its branch network in the Washington metropolitan community. Robertson has over twenty years of banking experience in branch management and branch operations, as well as bank marketing, most recently with Cardinal Bank, where she was Director of Marketing. In her new role, Robertson will be responsible for driving sales and service performance of its retail teams and expanding the Company's brand awareness and community engagement through strategic marketing and advertising.

Richard B. (Randy) Anderson, Jr. President and Chief Executive Officer said "Robin is a wonderful addition to the NCB Team and brings strong retail banking and marketing skills to our efforts to enhance our brand and banking experience."

A longtime resident of Northern Virginia, Robertson is involved in the Arlington and Alexandria communities. She holds a B.A. in Business Management from Lynchburg College, and is a graduate of Leadership Arlington, Class of 2001 and member of the Board of Regents for The Leadership Center for Excellence and a graduate of the Virginia Bankers Association School of Bank Management.

The National Capital Bank of Washington was founded in 1889 and is Washington's Oldest Bank. NCB is headquartered on Capitol Hill with a second branch located in Friendship Heights, as well as a residential mortgage office and a wealth management services office. The Bank trades under the symbol NACB. For more information about NCB, visit www.nationalcapitalbank.com
